Delivery, Paying $2,000 a Month
For Hog Products.

The average citizen of Houston county and of Dothan has never figured on just how much money was sent out of this community for articles we could raise.

We all have been used to hogs.

We have a general idea that Houston county produces enough meat and lard to run the county, but this is an error.

With all the hogs we raise, and we are above the average of Alabama counties in hog raising, we don't raise near enough to run us.

The average farmer—the good farmer, thinks he does well if he produces enough meat and lard to run his place. This isn't enough. He should produce enough to sell those who do not raise any.

Dothan is spending $5,000 a month for meat and lard that is shipped in here from the west.

That is a sad story, considering our ability along this line. That means that we are spending $60,000 a year, buying about 600,000 pounds of meat and lard, which could be produced by a very small effort on the part of the farmers.

How much better would it be, if we were selling $5,000 worth of meat and lard a month. That would mean much to this town and to this county.

Add that is but one item.

We even buy Irish potatoes which are grown in other sections and they are something that are sold every day in the year.

We send to the West for corn, for flour, for meat, for lard, for bacon and for hams, and we send to the West for our potatoes, and bacon comes across the water. And when in a farming section, too, one that is especially blessed in climate and soil. We are doing all this, while we walk about wringing our hands, wondering when will cotton go up, or when the war will stop.

We, who are cotton raisers, know we have enough made already to supply the demands for another twelve months, and we know also that we must continue to send money out of the country for things we should raise here.

Foraging is about the only basis we know of, outside of a newspaper office, where there isn't business methods applied.

Cotton Syrup

Did you ever see any—beautiful cotton syrup?

That's the way the paragraph of the Birmingham Ledger put it, at words to that effect;

Nearly enough syrup has been produced in Alabama this year to supply the state. In Birmingham men have eagerly bought it direct from the producers and beautiful cotton syrup is being sold at 50 cents a gallon. The cane syrup brings more."

Well, we should say cane syrup would bring more. Down here in the South cane belt, a fattening hog will eat sorghum syrup, and the negro, the natural syrup seller, wants none of your sorghum, but it takes a good grade of sugar cane syrup to satisfy him, and he is a good judge of what is good to eat, and what is good food for his constituents.

How We Could Have Saved $330,000,000.

Had the South made a fourteen million bale crop this year, and sold it for $60 a bale, it would have brought, for the cotton alone, $840,000,000, and now that it has made about seventeen million bales, selling, say, for $30 a bale, it brings $10,000,000, or $630,000,000 less than the smaller crop would have brought. Strange figuring, but that's a fact.

We don't undertake to say that had but fourteen million bales been made that it would have brought $60 a bale, but it would have come all round it. Of course, the European war has cut the price, but we made too much to have gotten more than 8 cents a pound for it without any war.

Had the government stepped in and forbade the planting of a seed of cotton during 1915, such an action would have sent the price of the present crop sky high, and we would have been able to mark time for one year, and by so doing, would have been rid of the boll weevil when 1916 came around. But the government didn't do it. It was too big a job for the politicians to tackle, and they were busy preparing bulls to milk the government for more funds.

But even if the government did not act, the farmers should have sense enough to act. They should go ahead and plant a feed crop of sufficient size to run the place, and then if they have a few acres left, it may be planted to cotton.

GLASS OF SALTS CLEANS KIDNEYS

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder
Bothers You, Drink Lots of Water.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that irritate the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate the clogged kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful, fervent lithia water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of the your kidney trouble and backache.

SOUTH AFRICAN TROUBLE SAID TO BE AT AN END

Capetown, via London, Dec. 20

General Louis Botha, premier of the Union of South Africa, considers the rebelling, apart from the rounding up of a few stray bands, at an end. He has gone for a short vacation before undertaking a campaign against German Southwest Africa.

With the capture of General DeWet and the death of General Beyers in an engagement, the South African government recently announced that the rebellion started by those leaders was practically at an end. Most of the followers of DeWet and Beyers, it was said, either had been captured or dispersed.

Don't take up too much time studying about your enemies. You make money off your friends, for your enemies don't do business with you 'till they have worked the town and are convinced that they can get what they want no where else this side of Sears Roebuck.

POLICE HUNTING $13,100 STOLEN BY AUTO BANDITS

Cincinnati, Dec. 18—Police sought today for the $13,100 obtained by Frank G. Hohl, automobile bandit, from the two banks he held up and robbed yesterday before he was mortally shot in a pistol duel with three patrolmen. Edward Knud, the policeman shot by Hohl, was operated on today, but physicians held out little hope for his recovery.

Hohl's body still lies unclaimed at the City Hospital. His wife, Mrs. Bertha Hohl, who was arrested last night, declared she would not claim the body. She denied knowing anything about the robbery and said her husband left her more than a year ago because she would not take an active part in his career of crime.

TRACHOMA IN PORTO RICO

United States have found that trachoma is rare among negroes.

Contrary to these results, there is a fairly high prevalence among negroes in Porto Rico, although less than among white children. The more close relationship of negroes with whites in Porto Rico may partially explain the difference. As mulattoes give practically the same percentage as whites, the suggestion is made that the mixture of white blood destroys or reduces the partial natural immunity of the negro.

Trachoma is a chronic granular disease of the eyelids which not infrequently brings about serious consequences such as impaired eye-sight or total loss of vision. It is classed as a "dangerous contagious disease" by the U. S. Public Health Service, and all those afflicted with it are not permitted to live in the United States. Its exact cause has not been definitely determined as yet.

In Porto Rico the disease is not limited to the poorer children, but was found among all classes of the population. Pupils of the rural schools presented a much higher percentage than those of the double purpose of relieving trichoman himself as the peer of the sufferers and reducing sources of infection. A campaign past three seasons, and his ministry against the disease based on these cal ability has furnished enjoyment and laughter for thousands of delighted patrons with Coburn. This season he returns with a Big Four Musical Hussar Ace, which is one of the features of the new show.

Manager Coburn absolutely guarantees that this is the best and biggest attraction he has ever carried. Everything new, scenery, costumes, and six big vaudeville specialties never before seen in the latest and best in black face comedy, songs, jokes and darky impersonations for which they are both celebrated. There are not two more capable comedians in minstrelsy.

Mr. Gano returns after a year's absence as manager of one of the vaudeville minstrel companies in northern circuits with a brand new line of songs, stories and a screaming farce satire "Peculiar Mexican" which is the best skit he has ever produced in the history of minstrelsy.

A SONG FOR CHRISTMAS.

James Whitcomb Riley.
Chant me a rhyme of Christmas
Sing me a jovial song,
And though it is filled with laughter,
Let it be pure and strong.

Song of the heart brimmed over
With the story of the day,
Of the echo of childish voices
That will not die away.

Of the blare of the tasseled bugle
And the timeless clatter and beat
Of the drum that throbs to muster
Squadrons of scampering feet.
But, O, let your voice fall fainter,
Till, blent with a minor tone,
You temper your songs with the beauty
Of the pity Christ hath shown.

And sing one verse for the voiceless—
And yet, ere the song be done,
A verse for the ears that hear not
And a verse for the sightless one.

For though it be time for singing,
A merry Christmas glee,
Let a low, sweet voice of pathos
Run through the melody.

Friends will regret to learn that Mr. Jake Meyrovitz is seriously ill at his home on South St. Andrews street.

A Questionable Precedent—

The economics division of the General Federation of Women's Clubs has fixed at $800 a year the value of the work performed by the average housewife. Gentle men who are prejudiced against exertion will doubtless quote this finding to their wives as conclusive proof that regard for family welfare requires their retirement to the comfortable duty of keeping the furnace going for the winter, while wife increases the family income by disposing of her services in the outside labor market at the rate thus established.

Mrs. M. A. Griffin, of Malvern, is the guest of her son, Wade H. Griffin, on West Newton street.

The following clipping copied from an Atlanta paper of Sunday, contains many interesting suggestions that will be of interest to many.

Following are some timely suggestions from a prominent club woman of Atlanta.

Don't begin to tell your friends a month before Christmas that you do not intend to give any Christmas presents, as times are too hard. Remember that your income has not been cut down as others have, and it is time for you to be generous.

Remember that there is much in your attic that you do not use, but which would be acceptable to those less fortunate than you self.

In distributing your gifts, give the best you have to the poorest one on your gift list. Let your least expensive trinkets go to those who already have.

In giving to the poor give something durable and perishable, besides the practical things in the package. Even poor women like the trifles of life—sachet bags, perfumed soap, fragrant extracts and filmy, fluffy things.

Do not send your gifts without having given thought to the recipient. One woman will like a bolt of lingerie ribbon, while the other one will hope for a woolen bed pocket. Think of the recipient then select the gift.

Give your servants money and some up-to-date article for the toilet. A necklace, a box of fancy handkerchiefs or a silken scarf will please the cook who spends her daily life in the folds of a cotton frock.

If your neighbor is sick, send her a piece of china for her breakfast tray. A slice of toast will be better if served on a bluebird plate.

If another woman is ill, and you desire to please her, send her a box of dainty toilet articles, including a box of face powder, perfumed talcum, a bottle of fine extract, a cake of extra fine soap and several bolts of baby ribbon with a ribbon needle.

When your friend sews, remember that she usually has all the sewing things she needs. Give her a box of monogram stationery, cards, sealing wax and fifty postage stamps.

Forget to give the woman who never wears low shoes the silk stockings you selected for her. Do not give the woman who has holes in her shoes a gold shoe last year's disappointment button. Pass on the gifts you got last year, but, for heaven's sake, pass them on judiciously. And, above all, put away the have to. You do not have to give your gift last year when she had so much trouble on her mind, you should not give anything and send her at least a word of greeting at Christmas, when you know her heart will be sad over it with a blessing and a warm heart, and not be afraid.
